

All Saints' Day

November 1st

D'Trauliicht brennen, is a Northern Luxembourgish tradition for the eve of All Saints' Day when people would hollow out beets or turnips, carve scary faces onto. Lit by a candle, these Trauliichter are then placed on village walls, windows of homes, and barns to protect households from the souls of the dead.

Draw your own Trauliichter!

